15. Once the software has been activated, click on OK:

Please follow the instructions below to de-activate your license:

You can de-activate your T1DMS license at any time. This action returns your license to the server for storage and re-use, allowing you to quickly and easily move the license to another machine. Once de-activated, the T1DMS software will no longer run on the machine until you (1) re-activate it on the same machine, or (2) install the T1DMS software on a new machine and activate it on that machine.   This deactivation/activation process allows you to de-activate and activate between two computers easily:
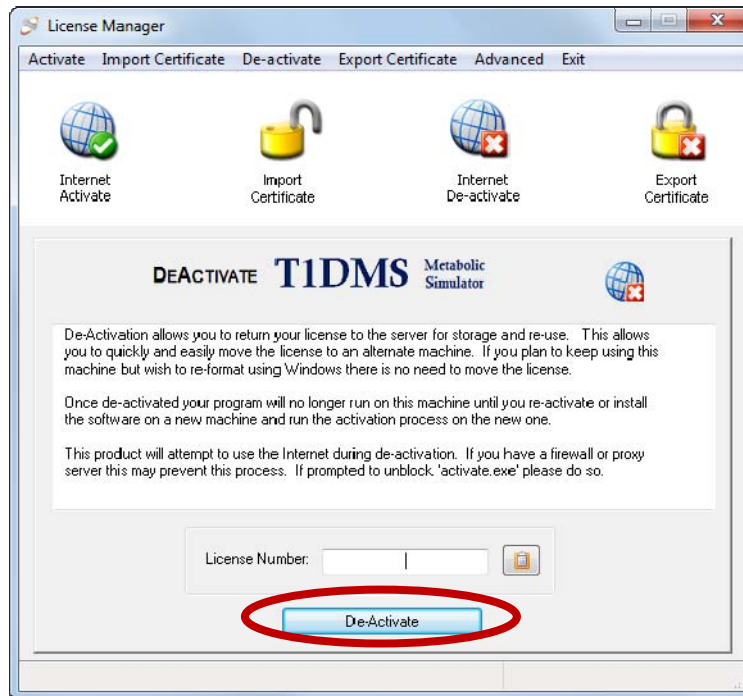

1. Go to your Program Files Folder for the T1DMS software and double-click on License Manager.exe:

2. Once the License Manager window opens, click on De-activate in the Menu Bar:

3. Enter your 18-digit License code and click on De-Activate:

4. Your license can now be activated on another computer or re-activated on the same computer. Click on OK to proceed:

Please follow the instructions below to re-activate your license:
1. If you try to run the UVa/Padova T1DM Simulator software without re-activating the license, you will receive the following message:

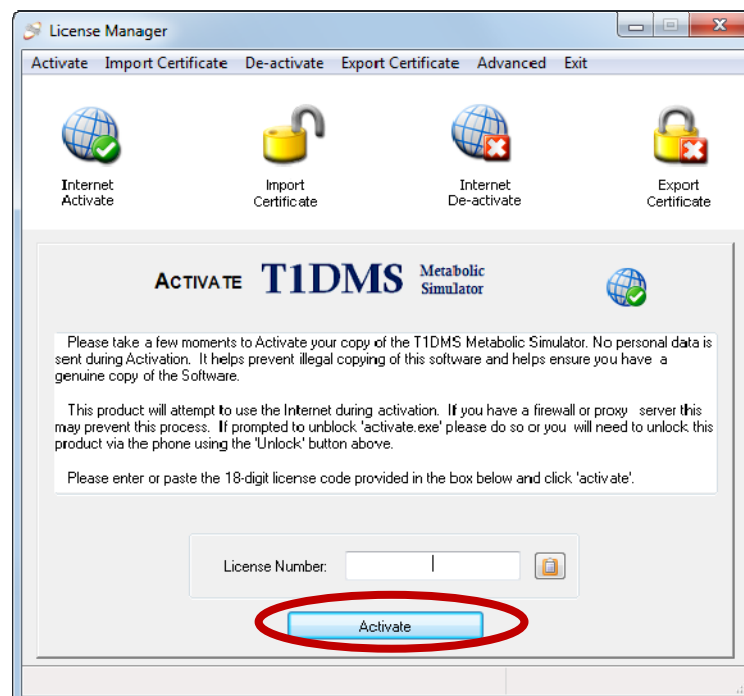

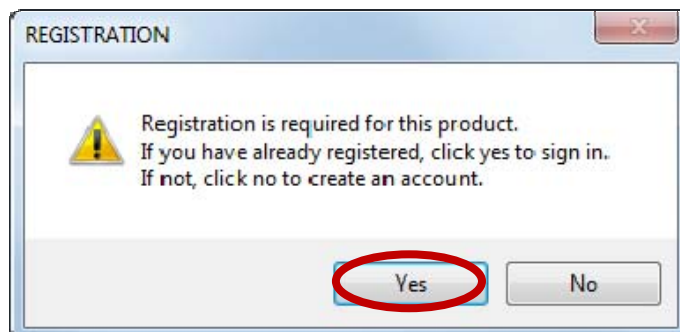

and a Matlab Error:

2. Go to your Program Files Folder for the T1DMS software and double-click on License Manager.exe:

3. Enter your 18-digit License code and click Activate:
